

בס"ד

THE RASHI OF THE WEEK

Week of

Parshas Lech Lecho

11 Cheshvan, 5783 – November 5, 2022

Compiled from the works of

Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson
The Lubavitcher Rebbe

By

Rabbi Shmuel Mendelsohn
North Miami Beach, FL

A Project of

Vaad L'Hafotzas Sichos

Copyright 2022©

THE RASHI OF THE WEEK

An Outline of the Rebbe's Explanation of Rashi Parshas Lech Lecho

Toras Menachem Hisvadu'yos 5742, Volume 1

Rashi in His Own Words

בראשית י"ב, ג': וְאַבְרָהָם מְבַרְכֵיךָ וּמְזַלְלֶיךָ אֶעָר וְנִבְרָכֶיךָ בְּךָ כֹּל מִשְׁפְּחַת הָאָדָמָה:

רש"י ד"ה ונברכו בך כל משפחות האדמה: יש אגדות רבות, וזהו פשוטו. אדם אומר לבנו תהא כאברהם, וכן כל ונברכו בך שבמקרא. וזה מוכיח (בראשית מ"ח, כ') "בך יברך ישראל לאמר ישימך א-להים כאפרים וכמנשה":

Bereishis 12:3: And I will bless those who bless you, and the one who curses you I will curse, and all the families of the earth shall be blessed in you."

Rashi Heading – shall be blessed in you: There are many Aggados, but this is its simple meaning. A man says to his son, "May you be like Avrohom." This is the case in every instance (of the words) "shall be blessed with you" in Scripture. The following proves this¹, "With you, Israel shall bless, saying, 'May Hashem make you like Efraim and like Menasheh.'"

Synopsis

Our Parshah, Lech Lecho, tells us that due to his travels, Hashem will make him a great nation, bless him, and cause his name to be great. Furthermore, he shall be a blessing². Over and above that, G-d says, "I will bless those who bless you, and those who curse you I will curse. All the families of the earth shall be blessed in you." Rashi cites the words from the above verse "shall be blessed in you." He comments, "There are many Aggados³, but this is its simple meaning. A man says to his son, "May you be like Avrohom." This is the case in every instance (of the words) "shall be blessed with you" in Scripture. The following proves this⁴, "With you, Israel shall bless, saying, 'May Hashem make you like Efraim and like Menasheh.'"

As we have discussed many times, Rashi's purpose is to explain the simple meaning of each verse. Why is he telling us that there are many Aggados? Additionally, what difference does it make just how many Aggadic explanations there are? Rashi is concerned with Peshat, not Aggadah.

The explanation is as follows. The words "all of the people of the earth will be blessed in you" do not

1. Parshas Vayechi, Bereishis 48:20.

2. The above is paraphrased from our Parshah, Bereishis 12:1-2.

3. Aggados, the plural of Aggadah, refers to Midrashic interpretations of the Torah.

4. See footnote 1.

THE RASHI OF THE WEEK

bother Rashi. A beginner will understand that a man will say to his son, "may you be like Avrom." This much is obvious.

What Rashi is explaining, as is often the case, is the context of these words. Hashem just gave Avrom incredible blessings, and they were both great physically and spiritually. Furthermore, He told Avrom that from this point on, all blessings are entrusted to him. The final Berochoh, the greatest of all of the earlier blessings, is that even the nations of the earth, those who have no understanding of spiritual matters, will grant Avrom such esteem that they will bless their children to be like him. Why should this interest Avrom?

That is why Rashi begins by saying there are many Aggados; it takes many Aggados to explain how lofty this Berochoh is.

Rashi's Explanation

At the end of last week's Torah portion, Noach, we were introduced to Avrom, who would become the forefather of the Jewish Nation. In this week's Torah portion, Lech Lecho, we read of Hashem's command to him to go forth from his land, his birthplace, and his father's house. Hashem further commanded that he should go to the land He will show him, the land of Israel. Because Avrom listened to Hashem and traveled to and throughout Israel, Hashem promised to make him a great nation, bless him, and cause his name to be great. Furthermore, Hashem said that Avrohom would be a blessing⁵. Over and above that, G-d says⁶, "I will bless those who bless you, and those who curse you I will curse. All of the families of the earth shall be blessed in you."

What is the meaning of "all of the families of the earth will be blessed in you?" Rashi cites the words from the verse "shall be blessed in you" and explains them as follows. He writes that there are many Aggados, Midrashic explanations of these words. However, Rashi continues that the simple meaning, i.e., Peshat is that a man will say to his son, "may you be like Avrom." Rashi quotes from further in Bereishis that ⁷ "With you, Israel shall bless, saying, 'May Hashem make you like Efraim and like Menasheh.'" He tells us that this proves that whenever the Torah uses the expression "shall be blessed with you," this is what is meant.

Difficulties in Understanding Rashi

First and foremost, we have repeatedly stated that Rashi's goal is to explain the simple meaning of the

5. The above is paraphrased from our Parshah, Bereishis 12:1-2.

6. Our Parshah, Bereishis 12:3.

7. See footnote 1.

THE RASHI OF THE WEEK

Torah. We know from his words⁸ that his commentary is the only tool a total beginner needs to understand what the Torah is saying on a fundamental level. Why does Rashi need to write that "there are many Aggados?" What connection does this have with the simple meaning of the Torah, which is Rashi's objective?

Furthermore, why does Rashi need to specify that there are many Aggados? Why should the quantity of Aggados be relevant? After all, Rashi does not specify which Aggados or how many there are. What difference does it make?

Moreover, there are many instances where Rashi does quote an Aggadah. However, this is only when it is needed to explain the meaning of the verse⁹. Then too, it is when there is a question regarding the simple meaning of the verse. However, here, after stating that there are Aggados, Rashi goes on to say that "this is its simple meaning ..." In other words, in our case, there is a simple explanation that can be understood. That makes the question of why Rashi needs to cite Aggados more significant.

The question becomes even more significant when you consider that Rashi concludes his comments by writing, "so is every instance of the words 'will be blessed with you in Scripture.'" Since the same explanation applies throughout Scripture, it must be simple to understand. Not only does Rashi state that many Aggados explain this, but he mentions the "many Aggados" first before saying that there is a simple explanation! This certainly does not seem to blend with Rashi's standard procedure.

The Explanation

When the beginner learns the verse "all of the families of the earth will be blessed in you," he has no doubt what it means; he understands on his own that a man will say to his son that he should be like Avrohom. The question here is not the meaning of the words. Rather, the question is what it means within the context of the verses. In other words, the difficulty arises here from how these words follow the preceding words. As we have already discussed many times, at times, Rashi explains the meaning of a word itself, and other times he explains the connection between one verse and another.

The verse begins by telling of the tremendous blessings which Hashem gave to Avrom¹⁰; "I will make you into a great nation, I will bless you, I will make your name great, and you will be a blessing." Rashi explains that

8. See for example Parshas Bereishis, Bereishis 3:8; "There are many Aggadic Midrashim, and our Sages already arranged them in their proper order in Bereishis Rabbah and in other Midrashim. However, I have come only to teach the simple meaning of the Scripture and such Aggadah that clarifies the words of the verses, each word in its proper way."

9. See for example the previous footnote, where Rashi writes that besides Peshat he also quotes "such Aggadah that clarifies the words of the verses, each word in its proper way."

10. Our Parshah, Bereishis 12:3.

THE RASHI OF THE WEEK

"you will be a blessing," means that all of the blessings are entrusted into Avrom's hand from this point on. What is added by the blessing that "all of the families of the earth will be blessed by you?"

In other words, the earlier blessings were incredibly great – both physically and spiritually. What benefit is it to Avrom that even the families of the earth who have no comprehension of spiritual matters will hold him in such great esteem that even they will bless their children to be like Avrom? This blessing does not compare to the earlier blessings, yet it is stated last, which implies that it is equal to all of the other blessings.

. Therefore, Rashi must begin his commentary by saying, "there are many Aggados." What is the significance of Aggadah? The Alter Rebbe teaches us¹¹ that between the afternoon and evening service, those who are in Shul should "study in groups of (at least) ten the innermost (i.e., the mystical) dimension of the Torah, i.e., the Aggadah contained in *Ein Yaakov*¹². This is because most of the secrets of the Torah are concealed in it (i.e., in the Aggadah)."

These Aggados, which contain Torah's hidden, mystical aspect, explain that the blessing that "all of the families of the earth will be blessed in you" is indeed an exalted blessing. Rashi states that "there are many Aggados" because only through many Aggados can this blessing be understood as equivalent to all of the previous blessings. That would not be the case if there were only one Aggadah. But by combining the explanations of the various Aggados, one can see that this blessing indeed outweighs all the others.

Nevertheless, Rashi does continue and writes, "but this is its simple meaning; A man says to his son, 'May you be like Avrohom.'" He writes this, although it appears to be problematic. It does not seem to flow from the earlier verses or add anything to the previous blessings.

Rashi uses this explanation, despite the fact that it is not such a good fit, because this is what "every instance of the words 'will be blessed with you' in Scripture" means. Furthermore, Rashi proves this by quoting, "With you, Yisroel shall bless, saying, 'May God make you like Ephraim and like Menashe.'"

In other words, we learn from the instance that the Torah specifies, "With you, Yisroel shall bless, saying, May God make you like Ephraim and like Menasheh," that every other place throughout the Torah, these words have the same meaning. Therefore, here too, he cites this explanation, even though it doesn't follow very well from the previous verses.

11 Igerres Hakodesh, Chapter 23.

12. Ein Yaakov is a compilation of all of the stories, the Aggadah, contained in the Talmud.

THE RASHI OF THE WEEK

Nevertheless, first Rashi mentions the Aggados because only they explain how this verse fits with the preceding verses. However, Rashi doesn't quote the Aggados because there are many; perhaps he would quote them if there was only one.

Rashi states that "there are many Aggados" because only through many Aggados can this blessing be understood as equivalent to all of the previous blessings. That would not be the case if there were only one Aggadah. But by combining the explanations of the various Aggados, one can see that this blessing indeed outweighs all others.

(Adapted from talks given on Shabbos Parshas Lech Lecho 5742)

I hope you gained as much by reading this as I did by translating and adapting it.

Click here to dedicate a week, a month, or a year of the Rashi of the Week.

You can find us on the web at www.RebbeTeachesRashi.org.

You can find our blog here.

DEDICATED IN HONOR OF THE LUBAVITCHER REBBE

* * *

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

Dr. Mindel Rivka (Muriel) bas Reb Menachem Mendel Shlomo ע"ה Stitt

Passed away on Shabbat Parshat Lech Lecha, 10 Mar-Cheshvan, 5782
May Her Soul be bound in the Eternal Bond of Life

*

DEDICATED BY HER FAMILY שיהיו

* * *

IN HONOR OF

The Soldiers of "Tzivos Hashem"

Chaim and Aiden Oded שיהיו

Morris

May they merit to be a source of Chassidic pride to their family and a Torah light to their community

*

DEDICATED BY THEIR PARENTS

Rabbi & Mrs. Menachem M. and Chaya Mushka שיהיו

Morris

* * *

IN HONOR OF

Mrs. Esther שתהי' Sharabani

May she go from strength to strength in health, happiness, Torah, and mitzvot

*

DEDICATED BY HER SON

Mr. Gershon (Geri) שי' Bentov

מוקדש לזכות

כ"ק אדמו"ר נשיא דורנו מליובאוויטש

*** * ***

לעילוי נשמת

מרת מינדל רבקה בת ר' מנחם מענדל שלמה ע"ה

סתית

נפטרה ש"ק פרשת לך לך, יו"ד מר-חשון תשפ"ב

ת. נ. צ. ב. ה.

נדבת בני משפחתה שיחיו

*** * ***

לזכות

חיילי "צבאות השם"

חיים ועדן עודד שיחיו

מאריס

נדפס ע"י הוריהם

הרה"ת ר' מנחם מענדל וחי' מושקא שיחיו

מאריס

*** * ***

לזכות

מרת אסתר שתחי' שרבני

לאריכות ימים ושנים טובות עד ביאת גואל צדק
ומתוך בריאות הנכונה ולשנת ברכה והצלחה בגו"ר

נדפס ע"י בנה

ר' גרשון שי' בן טוב